

Directions: Read the case, then using the skills that you talked about in going over the good decision making steps, think about and write down your different choices and the advantages and consequences of each choice. You MUST think of three DIFFFERENT decisions you could make based on the problem.

The Case of the Missing Homework

Tonya and Ronald have a group project due at the end of the week in science. It seems hard and will have to be done after school. Ronald will probably need to get an adult to help with his part and will definitely miss several good TV shows and basketball practice if he does the whole thing. Ronald is pretty sure that if he doesn't do it, it will only bring down his six weeks grade two letters. Ronald knows that if he doesn't tell his mom about it, he won't be expected to do it at home. Plus, Tonya will probably do a lot of it.

The problem: _____

The facts as you know them: _____

Think about your choices and what may happen if you choose each one

	What makes this a good choice? (pluses)	What makes this a bad choice (minuses)?
Choice 1:	_____	_____
Choice 2:	_____	_____
Choice 3:	_____	_____

Write down the best solution: _____

